

Dining Hall

This is our main and only dining hall here on campus. This dining hall is also known as “Chow” due to our military aspect here on campus. Chow is open seven days a week and serves breakfast, lunch, and dinner. You can access this dining hall with your Nighthawks Card, which contains a number of meal swipes based on your meal option plan. The meal option plans include unlimited, 15 meal swipes a week, and 10 meal swipes a week. Each swipe includes unlimited amounts of food once in, but if you exit chow, you must use another meal swipe in order to eat another meal. As a freshman in your first semester, I would suggest that you get the unlimited meal plan, since you don’t know how often you will dine at Chow. If you find that you do not need the unlimited meal plan, then you can switch to another one of the meal plan options. There are many different options within this dining hall. We have a cereal and waffle bar, drinks, True Balance (offers meals if you have dietary restrictions), Mongolian station (omelettes in morning, stir fry in afternoon and evening), burger station, Vegan options, North Georgia Kitchen (pancakes/eggs/bacon in morning, home cook meals in afternoon, Chicken Finger Friday is my favorite), Pizza bar, Dessert bar, Salad bar, Panini/Sandwich bar, and a fruit/yogurt bar.

In addition to our Chow Hall, we also offer Chow House Diner (located at top of Chow), Miso, Twisted Taco, Einstein Bagels, Provisions on Demand, and Starbucks. At these locations, you can use your dining dollars (come with meal plan, located on Nighthawks Card).

I love coming to Chow, whether it be to swipe in and grab an apple between classes, or enjoying dinner with friends
