Lead where it counts.
UNG’S CORPS OF CADETS

UNG UNIVERSITY of NORTH GEORGIA™
The Military College of Georgia
Take the lead.

UNG’s Corps of Cadets is redefining the next generation of leaders—in the military, in Fortune 500 companies, in government and more.

As one of only six senior military colleges in the nation, and with special designations as a State Leadership Institution and The Military College of Georgia, UNG delivers elite leadership training for military or civilian careers. More than 750 men and women—scholars, athletes and leaders—come from across the country because they are driven to be the best.
Where we lead.

UNG prepares you for a thriving military career and for public sector success.

UNG’s Andrew Gomez and Bryton Wenzel ranked as the nation’s #2 and #5 cadets in 2017.
Since 1873, UNG’s Corps of Cadets has commissioned exceptional military officers. But that is not the only pathway.

While many choose the path to commissioning, you may also pursue the National Service Leadership track to prepare for leadership in the civilian sector. You’ll bring the leadership experiences and problem-solving skills gained as a cadet to a wide range of non-military opportunities.

• Judges
• State and municipal police leaders
• State policy advisers
• Foreign Service officers

Marketing major Cadet Alison Gaynor chose UNG to experience the total college life as a cadet and campus leader. One year in and she’s led all over campus—as SGA rep, Delta Zeta sister, speech and debate team treasurer, resident adviser, mentor for female cadets and Alpha Company clerk.

Next she’ll compete for a squad leader position. Already having one of the top physical fitness scores, she plans to further exceed the standards and excel in all environments. And she won’t settle until she’s the best.

Lead in cadet and civilian life.

After rising in the ranks, Cadet Dwight Bennett is making his mark on the world.

After learning Arabic in UNG’s intensive Summer Language Institute, he won a Project Global Officer grant to study in Morocco and live with a host family. He also attended International Cadet Week in Latvia, where he analyzed international relations issues with cadets from across Eastern Europe. He plans to return to North Africa as a Fulbright Scholar—then commission into the military as an officer, fluent in a strategic foreign language.

Modern languages

Whether you’re in a military role or a corporate position, mastering a second language is critical in today’s world and it gives you a competitive advantage in your career.

UNG’s strength in modern languages—eight of which are on Department of Defense’s strategic language list—is unparalleled among the nation’s senior military colleges. Among our advantages:

Summer Language Institute
This 6-week immersion in Chinese, Korean, Russian, Arabic or Japanese is a way to earn 8 hours of language credit, while sampling cultural activities such as singing in Russian, eating ethnic foods and learning on off-campus excursions. These experiences can unlock future opportunities for scholarships and career advancement.

ROTC Chinese Language Flagship Program
This intensive language and culture program, funded by the Defense Language National Security Education Office, is the only flagship program of its kind in the nation. High-achieving students can spend their final year of college in China to reach professional proficiency.
