HANNAH STOCKSDALE

To Hannah Stocksdale, a second-year Dahlonega Campus student, UNG is a safe and welcoming space to express herself while being valued for who she is. As a piano performance major, she thrives with the one-on-one interactions with her professors and the resources that UNG offers.

At UNG, we believe that your imagination and individuality have a major impact on your success, both in college and after graduation. We'll help you get there by equipping you with the tools you need to blaze a trail all your own.

WYATT NICHOLSON

Leaving Fort Worth, Texas, to attend college in Blue Ridge, Georgia, may seem like a strange decision to some, but for Wyatt Nicholson, a second-year business management major, UNG is the perfect choice. Here, Wyatt has found a community within the Blue Ridge Scholars program, where he can grow academically while developing his leadership skills through service projects. Having professors who care and invest in his success was a game-changer in his first year of college.

At UNG, we'll challenge you to set big goals for yourself and give you the support you need to reach them. For 150 years, we've been preparing students to be leaders in the classroom and in their communities.

OUR CAMPUSES

BLUE RIDGE

UNG's Blue Ridge Campus caters to students taking dual enrollment and core curriculum courses. Our small classes and dedicated faculty ensure personalized attention to support your success. Situated in the charming mountain town of Blue Ridge, you can enjoy an artsy atmosphere and exciting outdoor activities.

CUMMING

UNG's Cumming Campus offers a tight-knit community that is an ideal starting point for undergraduate and dual enrollment students. Small classes allow professors to be personal mentors and offer valuable guidance. This campus combines proximity to a vibrant cultural scene with the natural beauty of nearby outdoor destinations. Located in a rapidly growing region, Cumming provides opportunities for resume-building jobs and internships.

DAHLONEGA

UNG's Dahlonega Campus is our historic, residential campus located in the foothills of the Appalachian Mountains, where you'll enjoy a beautiful setting and countless opportunities to explore the outdoors. The vibrant student experience, with 120 student organizations and our award-winning Corps of Cadets, gives you ample opportunities to get involved and make friends! The campus also offers a close-knit learning environment with a 19:1 student-to-faculty ratio.

GAINESVILLE

UNG's Gainesville Campus provides a strong sense-of-belonging and community connections. Signature academic programs, like film & digital media, theatre, and environmental and spatial analysis provide unique experiences. Only an hour north of Metro Atlanta, this commuter campus is convenient to city attractions and scenic Lake Lanier. A regional hub for various industries, including healthcare, agriculture and retail, Gainesville gives you access to diverse job and internship opportunities.

OCONEE

UNG's Oconee Campus offers a distinctive college experience that embraces its local community. Located near Athens, Georgia, this commuter campus provides a welcoming atmosphere, where you'll build strong connections and have access to resources, resume-building opportunities, and dedicated faculty and staff to support your UNG journey.

BECOME PART OF SOMETHING LARGER THAN YOURSELF.

As the Army's senior military college, UNG's Corps of Cadets—the Boar's Head Brigade—offers a dynamic leadership training experience where you'll build relationships that will challenge you to be your best in your college career and beyond. The Boar's Head Brigade will empower you to make your mark on the world, whether you choose to commission in the Army or lead as a civilian.

TAVARES GORDON

For Tavares Gordon, a fourth-year student and cadet in the Corps of Cadets, being a leader requires courage and flexibility. Gordon is completing his degree in criminal justice with a POST certification, and he also volunteers for local emergency services. Although being a cadet brings on a lot of responsibilities, Tavares appreciates the balance of being able to make memories with friends outside of the corps.

At UNG, leadership is in our DNA, and we've spent the last 150 years preparing students to make a lasting impact in their communities and in the world beyond. UNG's history of leadership is ready for its next chapter to include YOU!

BRANDON ROSAS

Finding the best college for you can be intimidating. Brandon Rosas, a third-year film and digital media major at UNG's Gainesville Campus, knows how important it is to find a place that feels comfortable, inclusive and welcoming. His experience as a transfer student made him want to help other students starting their UNG journey, so Brandon became a transfer coach to guide them. He's also a member of UNG's Screenwriter's Guild, a community of creatives that works together to tell their own stories.

It's OK not knowing exactly what your future holds. UNG gives you the flexibility to explore your interests and the freedom to follow your passions.
